

THE FOCAL POINT

Vol. 57, Issue 10

OCTOBER 2021

Tishrei - Cheshvan 5782

From Your Rabbi...

An interesting question arose with regards to the sukkah. Interestingly, we've been having all kiddushim and shaleshudos meals in the sukkah area for a few weeks already, since it's outdoors and hence more COVID safe. Luckily the weather has been great.

Now that it's actually Sukkot, we have placed the sechach covering over the sukkah. We would also usually be placing the canvas walls along the sides. But the question arose: Is being inside the sukkah still considered to be outdoors for the purposes of COVID safety? There is a sort of "roof," but it's full of holes, by design! There are walls, but they're thin and flimsy. When you're in the sukkah, are you outdoors or indoors? It seems unclear. We came up with an elegant solution: we simply aren't putting up the canvas walls!

As it turns out, there are already two and a half natural walls to the sukkah - the two and a half brick walls of the shul building itself, which happen to abut the sukkah area. The Talmud teaches that a sukkah is minimally kosher with just two and a half walls! Problem solved. The only catch is, whenever we're eating our honey cakes and such during the kiddushim of Yom Tov, I'll have to instruct everyone to stay within the boundaries of those three walls. Luckily, those walls do provide more than enough space for this. All of this is just another instance where this pandemic has forced us all to rethink how we do things and come up with creative solutions.

The High Holidays this year were mostly back to normal, just with everyone wearing masks. But the service itself was the same. I was so delighted to see such a high turnout for Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. I had been wondering if people would stay away, as so many did last year, when our attendance was pretty sparse. It turns out the vaccines make all the difference. Now that we have vaccines, we rightfully feel much safer, and if the only difference is the discomfort of having to wear a mask, we'll take it.

I spoke at Kol Nidrei about how we Jews are good at playing the game of the long and slow process of redemption. As we slowly emerge from the pandemic in stages, let's keep that historic sense of resilience with us throughout this new year of 5782.

Shana Tova to us all,
Rabbi Moshe Grussgott

From Your President...

Well, we made it through Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur and are now celebrating Sukkot. It was heartwarming to see so many people filling our sanctuary for services. Rabbi Grussgott delivered inspiring sermons and Cantor Shalowitz and his son, Max, were inspiring as well. Now I'm looking forward to Cantor Hayoun joining us, along with the K.I. Synagogue Choir, for next year's High Holy Days!

Things are starting to return to normal.

The Women of K.I. have an event (Sangria Competition) planned for September 30, 2021. All K.I. women are invited.

Classes are starting in October. Watch for notices and come to Shabbat services and pick up a copy of the weekly bulletin which will have the weekly classes listed.

I took a short break from writing this article and started reading the new K.I. Directory, which came out in conjunction with Rosh Hashanah. I was astounded by the words of kindness and love from so many friends. The articles from our clergy and auxiliary groups were heartwarming. I thank each and every one of you for your kind words.

I wish only the best for you all, in health, happiness and success in all your endeavors.

I can't wait to see you at shul.

Marty Gorin, President

SPOTLIGHT ON K.I. MEMBERS

Jay Portnoy, MD, FAAAAI, Pediatric Allergy & Immunology, Telemedicine, has been selected to receive the 2021 “Gold Headed Cane” award by the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology (ACAAI). The award is the highest honor presented by the ACAAI for lifetime achievement.

“It is obvious that our members value your ongoing dedication to the College and the medical community,” said Luz S. Fineman, MD, FAAAAI, president of ACAAIU, in a letter informing Dr. Portnoy of the award.

Dr. Portnoy has been with Children’s Mercy Hospital since 1985. He is a professor of Pediatrics at the University of Missouri-Kansas City School of Medicine, and he was Division Director of Allergy/Immunology until 2016 when he became the Medical Director of Telemedicine. Dr. Portnoy founded the Allergy Training Program in 1997 and has been active in mentoring allergy fellows throughout his career. He lives in Overland Park, Kansas, with his wife, Ellen, and their two cats. Jay and Ellen’s children are Lara and her husband, Zak; and Michael and his fiancée, Glenda. Among them they have five grandcats and two granddogs. Fortunately, nobody in the family has a pet allergy.

The Gold Headed Cane award is a concept used today by many medical schools and specialty societies to recognize a physician who symbolizes the pursuit of the highest standards of scientific excellence and integrity. The award serves as an inspiration to younger doctors and encourages them in family, social, civic, religious, and professional life to cultivate character that earns the respect and goodwill of colleagues and the profession at large.

Canes were commonly carried by English physicians in the 1600s. They contained a cavity for aromatic substances such as rosemary, camphor or Marseilles vinegar to counteract offensive odors and prevent contagion.

The tradition of the Gold Headed Cane originated in 1689 with John Radcliffe, who had a particular interest in asthma as the personal physician to King William III, an asthmatic. Dr. Radcliffe began the tradition of passing the cane to a successor whom he considered to be the greatest English physician of his time.

Dr. Portnoy will officially receive the award on Nov. 6 during the ACAAI annual meeting in New Orleans.

Dr. Portnoy is on the national FDA Advisory Panel VRBPAC (Vaccines and Related Biological Products Advisory Committee.) It is a committee that approves the COVID vaccines and makes recommendation to the CDC.

Congratulations Dr. Portnoy!

In his younger years, Dr. Mikhail Kosiborod was a concert violinist in Siberia, competing against some of today’s most renowned violinists. But growing up in a medical family, he knew he wanted to be a physician from a young age. At 19, he moved to the U.S. with his family after having made a choice between medicine and music, ultimately deciding to go with his bigger passion.

While he was in the Mount Sinai School of Medicine, his father suffered a heart attack after being diagnosed with type 2 diabetes and coronary artery disease. This inspired him to become a cardiologist and influenced the rest of his career, including studying heart complications of diabetes. After medical school, he matched at Yale New Haven Hospital, where he became Chief Resident and subsequently completed a cardiology fellowship as well as the Robert Wood Johnson Clinical Scholars program, acquiring training as a clinician investigator.

Nicknamed the “Siberian Express” by his colleagues in residency due to his tireless work ethic, Dr. Kosiborod is now the Vice President of Research at Saint Luke’s Health System, Professor of Medicine at UMKC, as well as a practicing cardiologist and clinical trialist. He co-founded Saint Luke’s Michael & Marlys Haverty Cardiometabolic Center of Excellence and is the Executive Director of the Cardiometabolic Center Alliance. He was recently honored as the inaugural Ben McCallister, MD, Endowed Chair in Cardiovascular Research.

His passion is figuring out new treatments for cardiometabolic disease—the intersection of diabetes, obesity, heart and kidney disease. Dr. Kosiborod is internationally recognized, and he has published nearly 300 studies and helped develop some of the key strategies for treating diabetes, heart and kidney disease that are being implemented around the world. He is involved in the leadership of numerous clinical trials and multi-center registries, and is currently the principal investigator of several investigator-initiated, multi-center trials in diabetes and cardiovascular disease.

Out of all his accomplishments, he is most proud that Saint Luke’s was one of the first institutions to propose that a medication initially developed for diabetes (SGLT2 inhibitors) may have a significant impact on heart failure. Saint Luke’s launched one of the first clinical trials for this use, which along with other major developments in the field has led to even larger studies. Today, it’s becoming the new standard of care for heart failure.

Dr. Kosiborod is married to Elena. They have two sons, Samuel and Jonathan.

In 1958, two nine-year-old boys met as neighbors and became best friends. Their fathers had each experienced the hell of war—one as a victim of the Nazis, the other as a soldier and liberator. The boys made a promise to their fathers to share their families' remarkable experiences and ensure the world never forgets the horrors of the Holocaust.
